The Legislature passed a resolution instructing Breckinridge and Powell to resign their offices as Senators, on the ground filled the grand destiny belonging to her that they do not represent the sentiments beyond ail others. These men should be of Kentucky. Some appear to think that this involves a constitutional question, or some vested right, or that it charges personal criminality upon these Senators. The language of the resolution precludes such construction. It assumes no criminality on their part; nor does it cast any imputation upon them, except that they do not repre sent Kentucky; they, in fact, misrepresent the position of the State; and if they heed these instructions and resign, they lose nothing to which they are entitled beyond

No member of the Legislature would consider his vested rights interfered with if his constituents instructed him to resign his seat upon the ground that he misrepresented them. Although eatrusted with the office he holds, it does not belong to him; it is but a trust, and he is not above the counsel, instruction or reprehension of his princi pals. No one would question their right to advise or censure. It is a right reserved to the people. They have not surrendered it in any Constitution. The Legislature, when they elect a Senator, do not surrender their right to advise, counsel or censure those they elect.

This is a representative Government Men are elected to Congress for two years. It is certainly the purpose that they shall represent the sentiments of their constituents. The short time is fixed to insure it. The Senators are elected for six years, which gives them an opportunity to wait for the sober second thought; but this does not elevate them above their States. It is true a Representative or Senator may not heed advice, admonition or censure. If they choose, they can take the responsibility and rnn the risk. They cannot be deprived of their offices, by those who elected them, until their term expires; but let them know that their course is understood, especially when it is unpatriotic and treasonable, or very nearly akin to it. Ordinarily con stituents are sufficiently wise and cautious to avoid interference in small matters, when their representative is likely to be

Our Senators are heart and soul with the enemies of their Government. They have chosen to link their political fortunes with the men striving to break up a Government this State is as earnestly striving to preserve. These are notorious facts that can. not be overlooked. They seem to have forgotten their State and their Government in this crisis, in their affection for the enemies of both. When the State is invaded, and armies are mustering for our defense, what are these Senators doing? They who should be foremost are, to say the least, silent. Those who are not for us now are against us; and these Senators are not for us, to say the least. One of them is absent, and the other is dumb. They are both alike. Their friends, who know well their position, denied any difference between them, and we agree that, so far as misrepre sentation of the State is concerned, there is

How utterly preposterons that such men should hold offices in the United States Senate-men whose friends are for resisting the payment of tax to the Federal Government, who make no distinction between the United States and the Confederate States, except that in all their feelings and sympathies they are with the latter! What right have they to a seat in the United States Government, and those who own bank stock Senate, to operate against the Government and take pay out of the Treasury, whilet than other people. They will have the they love the treason against it?

In the better days of the Republic this would not have been tolerated for a day.

In the midst of this grand struggle, very eye is now directed to Kentucky, as the point at which the great conflict is to jugated, the Union falls to pieces like a house of cards.

It is proclaimed by secessionists on the streets that 75,000 men will be thrown into our State inside of a month. They have bragged and blustered so strong and loudly that we can expect nothing else but boasting. The wise man, however, takes the counsel of his enemies, and acts as though it was all true. Kentucky has now 11,000 men in the field for the Union, besides "Young's Cavalry," and other hermaphrodite regiments, composed partly of Kentuckians and partly of others; but still this State has not fulordered home. It is not only the National honor but the State honor which is insulted. We, of all others, ought to spring to arms, and we know from the spirit already exhibited that there will be 40,000 Kentuckians in the field by December. In the meanwhile, we have the best right to call upon the northwest for aid. The State neutrality has in a manner disarmed us. General Buokner has corrupted many of our young men, but still we know that in the State Guard there is a majority who only want such leaders as Crittenden and Anderson to come into the field.

But is the East doing its duty? Has New England, who, after South Carolina, did most to provoke these difficulties, acted up to its duty? Still they do not succeed. They go on flourishing for a while; they go into business, and look upon their fortunes as made; they branch out into extravagance of living, and cultivate the acquaintance of those whom they think can be of service to them, from the fact that those whose acquaintance they seek are more wealthy than themselves and move in higher circles. This ambition is perhaps laudable and praiseworthy; but, in reality, it does them no good. In order to maintain a position with those who have more money than they have, it becomes necessary to live more expensively than Myc untry now calls, loudly calls upon metheir means will allow. The man of wealth is not pleased with the attention which is thus bestowed upon him. He would think more of a young man who was quietly attending to his business, and who had no time to devote to anyone cut of business hours, and who associated with those who could appreciate his worth, and who would not set him Again, your young men who are in the emplyment of others oftentimes get above their business, and put on so many airs that their employer becomes disgusted with them, although he may discover that they have qualifications which, if properly trained, would place them in a good position. Again, young men are exceedingly apt to overrate their abilities and to imagine that they know more than those who have had more experience. They do not respect the opinions of these who are older than themselves, and are impatient to be at liberty to do as they please. In pursuing this policy they do not secure the confidence of their employer, which is so essential in their future operations. The full and emphatic indorsement of the employer will go a long way towards recommending the employee to those who may have occasion to transact business with him. In fact, it is as ment of the power of the rebellion, and the good as money for the young man to start out into the world on his own account. #### Brilliant Naval Exploit.

Our readers have already had by telegraph the news of the burning of the privateer Julith, in Pensacola Harbor. The follow ing interesting particulars we copy from the New York Times correspondent's letter, writing on board the frigate Colorado:

The boats, with oars muffled, left the side of the ship at about 11 P. M, and pulled into the harbor, keeping far enough from the rebel side to avoid observation. They continued on up the harbor to a point little above the navy yard. Here the course was changed, and each boat was headed for its especial object. From this moment every thought and every effort of both officers and men were directed to the success ful accomplishment of this most dangerous enterprise. The parties in the launch and second outter were to board and burn the recently mounted "big gun."

Lieut. Sproston, heading the orews of the first and third cutters, landed at the northern face of the stone wharf, and made directly for the newly-erected battery Whather this battery was not manned at all, or whether the men had been drawn from their stations by the neise of the strife which had already commenced at the schooner, or whether they had "traveled," is not known. The point at which Mr. Steece had landed was in full view of the schooner, and it required but a moment for him and bis men to enter their boat and join his comrades of the "boarding party." perform We have ardently desired peace, and hoped to save Kentucky from the calamities of war. When the Federal authorities deemed it necessary to employ force in self-defense, and to execute the laws of the Government, we assured our Southern neighbors of our purpose not to take up arms voluntarily against them, notwith-standing their wicked attempt to destroy the Government, from which we and our fathers have received the greatest benefits. effort was made, both before and after the employment of force, to effect some compronise and settlement that would restore the Union and prevent the effusion of blood.

The Federal Government did not insist pon our active aid in furnishing troops, eeming content if we obeyed the laws and executed them upon our own soil. Those ergaged in rebellion, however, with hypocritical professions of friendship and re-epect, planted camps of soldiers all along our southern border; seized, by military power, the stock on cur railroad within heir reach, in defiance of chartered rights; mondently enlisted soldiers upon our soil for their camps, whom they estentationaly marched through cur territory. They made constant raids into this State; robbed us of our property; insulted our people; seized some of our citizens, and carried them away, as prisoners, into the Confederate States. Our military was demoralized by the treachery of its chief officer in command, and many of his subordinates, until it became more an arm of the Confederate States than a Guard of the State of Kentucky. Thus exposed to wrongs and indignities, with no power prepared to prevent or resent them, some of the citizens of this State formed camps under the Federal Government, for the defense and protection of the State of Kentucky. What-ever might have been thought of the policy once, recent events have proved that they were formed none too soon.

In this condition we found Kentucky when the Legislature met, on the first Monday in September. We still hoped to avoid war on our own soil. We were met by assurances from the President of the Confederate States that our position should be respected; but the ink was scarcely dry with which the promise was written, when we were startled by the news that our soil was invaded, and towns in the southwest of our State occupied by Confederate armies. The Governor of Tennessee disavowed the act, and protested his innocence of it. His commissioners at Frankfort professed the same innocence of the admitted wrong; but onr warnings to leave were only answered by another invasion in the southeast of ind State, and a still more direct and deadly way of the Nashville road. These sudden irruptions of such magnitude, skillfully directed, show that the assault on Kentneky was preconcerted, prepared and intended long before. The excuses made for any of them but add insult to injury. not repeat them. They are but excuses for acts intended, without any excuse.

it must be by blood and conquest. Thus forced into war, we had no choice but to call on the strong arms and brave bearts of Kentucky to expel the invader from our soil, and to call for the aid of the Federal Government, as we had a right to do under the Federal Constitution.

Our foes would dictate terms to a brave people, upon which we can have peace. We are required to join them in their unwarranted rebellion, become accessory to their crimes, and consent to sacrifics the last hope of permanently upholding republican institutions, or meet their invasions as it ecomes Kentuckians.

We believe we have done our duty to a chivalrio people, who have forborne long, but will never fail, as a last resort, to resent an injury and punish an insult. About four hundred of Colonel Fyffi's Ohio regiment were taken to Maysville, Wednesday night, on the steamer Magnolia, and marched out to Camp Kenton, under General Nelson. The remainder of the regiment will all reach the camp this week, and the Maysville Eagle expresses the belief that General Nelson's brigade will be filled at an early day.

A camp of instruction is about to be opened near Lebanon, to be called Camp John Graves. The Central Kentuckian says that several companies are now forming, and two now completed under Captains Hal Palmer and G. W. Riley, are at Lebanon, waiting to go into camp.

The Marion Rifle Zouaves, Captain John Hughes, left the city on the 2 o'clock train yesterday afternoon for Frankfort, where they go into camp, forty-seven strong. This company has been one of the best drilled companies in the Home Guard organization, and will prove, no doubt, one of the best companies in the service. They are assigned to the right of the first regiment Kentucky State Guard.

Kentucky has already in the field twelve full regiments, and, including those of the citizens who have gone to other States to enlist, can point to eighteen or twenty thousand of her men in active service.

Our forces at Lock No. 1 are sufficient it is thought to hold the place against any force—to use the stereotyped phrase—"likely to be brought against it." The reports from Henderson are conflicting and unreliable. Two hundred rebel troops, the advance of Gen. Buckner's army, are reported to have been in Henderson yesterday. Gen. Yesterday evening the city was startled with the news that a skirmish had taken in Henderson county, twenty-five place miles from Henderson, between 500 rebels and 400 Home Guards. The latter were defeated, losing a cannon and sixty stand of arms. The report was doubtless not without foundation, though we could trace it to no reliable source.

At Paducah everything was quiet, but it was reported that the rebels numbering 40,000 under Col. Johnston, of the Utah expedition, formerly of the United States army, were marching towards Paducah. Every preparation was being made at the latter point to give the enemy a warm re-these gentlemen : On the 30th uit., some twenty-five Secessionists, in the vicinty of Greenupeburg, assembled for the purpose of making a desoent upon Grayson, disarming the Home Guards, and making off to the camp of John C. Breckinridge, which is not more than thirty miles from that place. Their place of rendezvous was the house of A. J. Landsdowen, a leading disunion spirit living near Grayson. Fortunately the Home Guard received timely information of these designs, and the evidence being sufficient in their opinion for active measures, they assembled in arms, and proceeded to invest the Doctor's house and arrest its occupants. As they came near one of the secesh rushed out, drew a revolver, and exclaimed. "Shoot, and be G-d d-d." A lad thir teen years of age, son of Judge McGuire, obeyed orders, and shot the fellow through the heart. The firing then commenced and lasted about five minutes, when the sescesh stampeded. A pestilent lawyer named McComus, law partner of Judge Adams, was among those who succeeded in getting The Home Guards however, suc ceeded in arresting the following, who are on the road to Louisville:

S. H. Wolcott, B F. Chin, Orlanda Nich. ols, Robert L. Stewart, John White, W. H. Campbell, H. C. Davidson, Wm A. Warnick, A. J. Lansdewen, and C. Carrol Pomery. Geo. Morton was also captured, but so seriously wounded by a ball passing through his neck as to make his removal unadvisable.

William Bartley and William Henry were killed. None of the Home Guard were injured. They captured all the arms of the traitors and twelve horses. Those who escaped are supposed to have made their way to Breckinridge's camp, where that aroh traitor has collected from 1,000 to 1,500 malcontents.

Within twenty four hours after the alarm was given over one thousand resolute Union men had gathered at Grayson ready to repulse the enemy. If they had arms and ammunition, two thousand men could be immediately organized in that region for immediate action, and, with a regiment of well drilled volunteers, would very quickly disperse the marauders collected by Breckinridge. A single incident will show how much in earnest the people are: An old man came into Grayson and demanded to be sworn. "I am, as my father was before me, a good Union man," said he, "but I want again to name. He believed that Messrs. Courtney, take the oath of allegiance to the Government of the United States." sworn.

When the news of the affair at Grayson reached Maysville, that patriotic gentleman and member of Crongress, Hon. Wm. H. Wordswoth, rallied a thousand men instantly, and they were about embarking in a boat, when word reached them that relief was not needed. Captain Stewart, of the Tennessee. He was met near Pulaski by a Louis county Home Guards, was the first one to whom Col Eifort sent for relief, say. ing that he could hold out for twelve hours against the enemy, but it was not long before Capt. mra The Senate, at its session last night, ture to raise money for the protection of our Government and country, it was understood that the banks, created by the Commonwealth, had come up patriotically and would each contribute its quota of the two millions asked for. But we were startled at a late hour last night with the intelligence from Louisville that one of the banks in that commercial emporium of the State, and one amongst those of the largest capital, if not fixtly refusing, was coming up slowly, perhaps reluctantly, to the contribution of its quota. In this emergency, some of the members of this body with others of the House, went to Louisville to see how the matter was. on our arrival, we found that the subject had not been properly understood, and the Bank of Kentucky, when the conditions and necessities were explained, premptly responded and promised her quota of $776,-The same application was then made to the Bank of Louisville, the quota of which was something under $400,000. The response was that it would loan $200,000. we had no authorized power from the Legislature, and were acting only as feeling an interest in the condition of the country, we responded that our duty to the Legislature and our own self-respect, and justice to the other banks would not permit us to accept anything less than the entire quota. The Northern Bank of Kentucky not only promised its quota, but $25,000 in excess; the Farmers' Bank also came forward instantly, and the Bank of Kentucky, upon explanation, came up squarely, and it was, therefore, not just to them take but $200,000 from the Bank of Louisville, and we therefore thought it should advance the whole or stand before the world as derelict of its duty to the State in its emergency. The reason why the Bank of Louisville would not respond was one of two things; either it was not able, or the managers are unwilling to furnish the money. If it is not able, it is the right and duty of the Legislature to know the fact and let the world know it, and if it were unwilling, it was equally the duty of the Legisla ture to expose that fact. That some of the Directors, and a majority of them, would gladly welcome the rebel chief now at the head of the invading army, if he should gain possession of the city of Louisville, and open the vaults freely to him, he had not a particle of doubt. Their countenances would doubtless express joy and not sorrow at his approach. In saying this he must except some of the gentlemen Directors by T. T. Shreve, and Howard, were loyal and true to the country and not only willing but anxious that the bank should furnish full proportion. Under this state of the case, and believing either that the bank was so managed as to be unable to do what the other banks are doing cheerfully, or that it was under a management directly sympa thising with the enemies of the State, he thought that the country and the world should know its condition and its management be exposed. We should know if its notes were not good, or the assets not sufficient for its liabitities or its va t capital was managed by traitors. It was for these reasons that he had introduced this resolution and desired its passage.-Louisville Journal, 5th. SMILETTOWN, SPENCER Co., KY., ) October 5, 1851.

A Daring Deed. An incident has come to our knowledge connected with the warfare in Western Virginia that is well worth relating Shortly after the battle at Carnifex Ferry, and about the time of the death of Col. J A. Washington, the enemy became very bold and insolent, and not only shot our pickets and attacked our scouting parties even when in large force, but did not hesitate to appear before our entrenchments and menace cur entire army. At that time communication was cut off between our camp at Elkwater and that at Cheat Mountain Sumit, the rebels holding possession of the road. It was necessary that communi cation should be re established between Gen. Reynolds at the former place and Col Kimball at the latter. Sevesal attempts had been made, but the messengers had been killed in every case. Four had already set out and had been picked off. The whole camp at Elkwater was in danger, and it was necessary to get word to the Sumit at 500 LOTS OF SUPERIOR READY-MADE CLOTHING.

To the Young Men of Kentucky. By the authority, and for the service of the Government of the United States, I propose to organize in Kentucky a regiment of his feat and the great service he had of cavalry, to serve three years, or during performed, in the official report forwarded the war, to consist of ten companies, each four, nor more than one hundred and four, rank and file.

Horses and all equipments to be furnished Volunteers owning good horses can have them appraised, mustered into the service, and paid for by the mustering officer. The Captains and Lieutenants are to be elected by the companies, respectively. Captains of companies will report to me at the Galt House, in Louisville, as soon as practicable. No company must be removed from its point of organization until crdered into camp. Transportation to the point of rendezvous will be furnished. None out active, vigorous men, and men of steady habits, will be received.

Capt. Richard W. Johnson, of the regular army, has been detailed to act as Lieutenant Colonel. I intend to make this regi ment, in all respects, equal to the best drilled and disciplined corps in the regular

I know this call will be patriotically answered. The soil of Kentucky has been wantonly invaded.

THE TIME FOR MEN TO COME TO THE IE.
Country's call has now arrived. Kentucky, through her Letislyture, has again problemed her loyalty to the Government framed by our return to the Government framed by our whelming majorities, rannounced to the world their opposition to reve thite, and their determination not to be dragged into the surging sea of Secession.

But, with utter disreard for the known sentiment of the State, the vasidas of the South, bent on destruction, are upon us like the locusts of Saypt, devouring and devistating, maniering and pilaging. They come with mre and sword. As a dictator their leader thrus's himself upon us, and around him come armed thousands by sourge a free people of a great State, into illustratives of revolution and bloodshed that they have ever repudia-Keatucky, through her people's representatives, has refused to embrace and hirlest back the bloody principles tangit by the drawder, and is to be a id in summing up the history of these great states, that Kentucky, proud, brave, mighty kentucky, had not the unfilinching conrige to drive back invasion, and that her people qualled when danger stood at their dwor? Not rather let time record that our glorious Commonwealth, like a warrior, sprang firmly in the field, and with Than and and and, till every invading foot had fletchessel.

I want men of conrage to join me in this undertaking. This for the young and vigorous to fight the battles of their country, and announce to coming generations that the attempted conquest of Kentucky was met by her sons as it should have been—with steel to steel.

Men joining my company will receive pay I om the time they are mustered in. Hood horses, blankets, uniforms and arms will be provided, together with verything necessary for camp life. My men shall all be mide comfortable at once.

From Yesterday's "Evening News." Washington, October 4.—Special Correspondence of the New York Herald—A report has been set on fact here to-night that Gen McClellan was about to start for Keniucky, to take command of that Department, under the impression that there is to be no occupation for the army of the Poto-There is no foundation whatever for That was 3,000 years ago; it is the same this report, at least nothing is known of now with the hard-to-he-convinced invalid.

This afternoon a party of rebels making a reconncisance on the Virginia side, near Great Falls, opened a fire upon our forces on the Maryland side, commanded by Gen. McCall. Information has been received by the Government that the British steamer Bermuds, which was several weeks ago reported to be fitting out to carry arms and visions to the rebels, has succeeded in running the blockade, and entering Savannah with a large and valuable arms, ammunition, provisions, clothing, and military stores.

The World makes the following statement:

The city is not yet purged of traitors. and they still maintain themselves unmolested near officers high in power."
An occurrence by which the night expedition against Munson's hill miscarried in its main purpose, demonstrates this fact. Gen. McClellan did not subject 20,000 men to a night march with no other object than the occupation of an unimportant hill. He had formed a plan to capture the 6,000 or 3,000 rebels who were in that vicinity, and had arranged certain signals to be displayed from Washington in case any unforseen occurrence should cause the expedition to be abandoned at the last moment.

Mc Hellan did not confide his plan to any but a very few prominent efficers, whose co operation was necessary. What was his indignation, then, when he was on the field, personally, superintending the movements of the forces, to see the eigna's from Washington, requiring the troops to remain in camp. The rebels had discovered the sig-nils before he did, and although he redoubled his efforts to hasten the departure of the troops, the rebels had got beyond his reach when he arrived at their entrenchments.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5 .- At the request of Hon. Augustus Frank, M. C. from New York, the Superintendent of the Census Bureau has prepared a statement of the white male population of the several counties of that State, between the ages of 14 and 45, and the population required each county to furnish the quota of one hundred thousand men. The Tribune's Washington dispatch of the 4th says Brevet. Maj. Wood arrived here to day and reported to the Secretary of War. The bureau directors of our affairs in Missouri greeted his coming as the highest evidence that Gen. Fremont had been superseded, and would be brought here to con-front a court martial, but they are mistaken. Gen. Wool was ordered here for consultation. Gen. Mansfield was sent to take tem porary command of Fortress Menroe, that military point being of too much importance to be left even a day without an experienced ommander. General Wool this morning had an interview with the President, the Secretary of War and General Soott. No new command has been assigned, nor has Mansfield been been ordered to remain permanently at Fort Monroe.

No cabinet decision has been arrived at in the Missouri question, but in the next 48 hours the Administration will decide either to supply General Frement with reinforce. ments, arms and money asked for, or supersede him. If the latter, General Wool will be ordered to St. Louis to take comman d and in that case, men, money and arms will be sent on. It is still believed, however, that General Fremont will not be superseded, unless the next news from Missouri is of an unsatisfactory and disastrous character.

Our treops breakfasted this morning six miles beyond Alexandria on the Fairfax road. A large detachment went to break up a nest of 1,500 rebel cavalry, who were plundering the Union farmers, and turning them out of their homes. The rascals apprised of the expedition, got into their saddles at daybreak just in time to receive the fire of our head files. The wounded fell in numbers, but were thrown on their horses and carried off. The church was used as a barracks, the beds on the floor being yet warm. From the church for meny miles West, North, and South, a reconnoisance was made which showed there were no large bodies of troops this side of Occoquan. The reconnoissance was pushed about nine miles further into Virginia, in this direction, than any made since the Bull Run reconnoissance

Special Dispatches to the Cincinnati Papers. CAMP ELEWATER, October 4.

Last night there was an alarm in the Secession camp at Greenbrier, originating in a panio among their own pickets. Their muskets and guns were discharged, killing and wounding a number of their own men.

It has been fully ascertained that during the engagement yesterday the rebel loss, in killed and wounded, is over five hundred Most of the enemy's batteries were masked, and situated on the side of the mountain The position occupied by us was so close to the foot of the mountain that the enemy's guns could not at all be brought to bear on us, thus accounting, in part, for our small loss. Our killed and wounded were brought to Chest Mountain summit with us, and the dead buried with due honors this morn-

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4. Four hundred of our troops, of various egiments, marched to Pohick Church, sixteen miles beyond Alexandria on the Fairfax road this morning, to break up a nest of one hundred and fifty rebel cavalry, who were plundering the Union farmers of the district, and turning them out of their homes. Apprised of the expedition, the rebels made off at day break, but not early enough to escape the fire of our head files. The church was a barrack, and the beds were yet warm. From the church, for some miles west, north and south, a reconnoisance was made, which showed that there are no large bodies of troops this side of Occoquan. The reconnoisance was pushed several miles further into Virginia than any we have made since Bull's Run. It wil have important results.

Rebels daily shoot at cur pickets on the Fairfax road. Our men always reciprocate,

The facts relative to Missouri affairs and movements of Gen. Wool are these: Gen. Wool was ordered here for consultation, and Gen. Mansfield ordered to take temporary command at Fortress Monroe, that being a military point of too much importance to be left without a competent commander. Gen. Wool arrived here to day. He has had interviews with the President, Secretary of War, and Gen. Scott. No new command has yet been assigned him, nor has Gen. Mansfield been ordered to remain permanently at Fortress Monroe.

No decision has been arrived at on the Missouri question, but within the next forty-eight hours the Administration will decide either to supply Fremont with reinforcements, arms and money now asked for, or supersede him. If the latter, General Wool will be ordered at once to St. Louis to take the command, and that case the men, money and arms will be sent on to him. It is still believed, however, that Fremont will not be super seded unless further news from souri is of an unsatisfactory character. The story that Fremont is under arrest entirely without foundation, and that of his being court martialed is equally unfounded. to-morrow morning.

It is well understood that the rebels will tion of causing a court martial for such a > Fremont is moving with tremendous energy in Jefferson City; that the bankers and capitalists of St. Louis were in consultation to day upon the best method of supplying Fremont with money, and closed with the prediction that within a week he would accomplish a splendid success.
